Teaching Ecocriticism and Green Cultural Studies 2016-01-12 modernism in the green traces a trans atlantic modernist fascination with the creation use and representation of the modern green from the verdant public commons in the heart of cities to the lookout points on mountains in national parks planned green spaces serve as felicitous stages for the performance of modernism in its focus on designed and public green zones modernism in the green offers a new perspective on modernism s overlapping investments in the arts politics urbanism race class gender and the nature culture divide this collection of essays is the first to explore the prominent and diverse ways greens materialize in modern literature and culture along with the manner in which modernists represented them this volume presents the idea of the green as a point of exploration as our contributors analyze social organic spaces ranging from public parks to roadways and refuse piles like the term green one that evokes both more than human natural zones and crafted public meeting places these chapters uncover the social and spatial intersection of nature and culture in the very architecture of parks gardens buildings highways and dumps this book argues that such greens facilitate modernists exploration of how nature can manifest in an era of increasing urbanization and mechanization and what identities and communities the green now enables or prevents

Modernism in the Green 2020-05-04 in this timely new study borlik reveals the surprisingly rich potential for the emergent green criticism to yield fresh insights into early modern english literature deftly avoiding the anachronistic casting of sixteenth and seventeenth century authors as modern environmentalists he argues that environmental issues such as nature s personhood deforestation energy use air quality climate change and animal sentience are formative concerns in many early modern texts the readings infuse a new urgency in familiar works by shakespeare sidney spenser marlowe raleigh jonson donne and milton at the same time the book forecasts how ecocriticism will bolster the reputation of less canonical authors like drayton wroth bruno gascoigne and cavendish its chapters trace provocative affinities between topics such as pythagorean ecology and the gaia hypothesis ovidian tropes and green phenomenology the disenchantment of nature and the little ice age and early modern pastoral poetry and modern environmental ethics it also examines the ecological onus of renaissance poetics while showcasing how the elizabethans sense of a sophisticated interplay between nature and art can provide a precedent for ecocriticism s current understanding of the relationship between nature and culture as mutually constructive situating plays and poems alongside an eclectic array of secondary sources including herbals forestry laws husbandry manuals almanacs and philosophical treatises on politics and ethics borlik demonstrates that elizabethan and jacobean authors were very much aware of and concerned about the impact of human beings on their natural surroundings her grandma s house in alabama ruth s story is fiction but the green book and its role in helping a generation of african american travelers avoid some of the indignities of jim crow are historical fact

What Does It Mean to Be Green? 2015-06-09 a timeless work of social satire set in the 1920s and considered one of the most insightful modernist depictions of england s working class living is a book about life in a factory town and the operations of a factory from the workers on the floor to the boss in his office the town is birmingham and the factory is an iron foundry like the one that henry green worked in for some time in the 1920s after dropping out of oxford and the stories courtships layoffs getting dinner on the table going to the pub death are all the ordinary stuff of life the style however is pure henry green at once starkly constrained and wildly streaked with the expedients and eccentricities of everyday speech cliché and innuendo clashing metaphors slips of tongue which is to say it is like nothing else epic and antic living is a book of exact observation and deep tenderness the work in rosamond lehmann s words of an amorous and austere voluptuary whose work continues to transform the novel

John Green 2014 desert vistas are often deemed vacant inhospitable wastelands don t suggest that to joy harjo pat mora or other contemporary southwestern writers in these arid stretches often devoid of green today s southwestern writers see pyrotechnic colors and gothic shapes that excite and often overwhelm the imagination and they capture this excitement in words that fix these desert images in the minds of readers who may too often look at the world through green colored glasses this anthology of contemporary nature writing from the greater southwest brings together a host of writers including peers of edward abbey such as charles bowden and ann zwinger and representatives of a new generation of writers such as rick bass and terry tempest williams the book is an eclectic blend of nonfiction and fiction field notes and poetry through which artists of diverse backgrounds both celebrate and illuminate the unique vitality and complexity of southwestern literature proving that green is only one of many colors on their palette the selections included here range all across the southwestern landscape and explore adventures in the wild topics in natural history living close to the land and efforts at conservation and restoration they clearly demonstrate that there is grace and beauty in this often maligned part of the world both in the human traditions that have developed in the region and in the natural features of the desert itself

Henry Green and the Limits of Modernism 2021-08-01 a woman would have to be crazy to take a job delivering books on horseback across treacherous mountain trails to poor mountaineers who can barely even read marian kearnes isn t crazy she s desperate on the run from an abusive father she must find a way to survive in the rugged appalachian mountains the only thing she brought with her is a horse and a wild passion for books could that be enough just when freedom is so close marian meets henry a handsome young widower and his two children she teaches them to read and feels that here in their mountain home she has finally found a place that would break her heart to leave but staying means giving up all she s wanted for her life nothing more than the chance to be independent will she at last be uncaged or will love be worth giving up her one opportunity for escape
